

Experimental Learning

Laboratory Learning

The Mechanical Engineering Department provides well-equipped laboratories that support practical understanding of core engineering concepts. Through hands-on experiments in areas such as thermodynamics, fluid mechanics, manufacturing, and strength of materials, students connect theoretical knowledge with real-world applications. Laboratory sessions emphasize experimental skills, data analysis, safety practices, and technical documentation. These facilities promote experiential learning and help students develop problem-solving and professional engineering competencies

Industrial Visit

The Mechanical Engineering Department regularly organizes industrial visits to provide students with exposure to real-world engineering practices. These visits help students understand industrial processes, manufacturing techniques, quality control, and workplace safety. By interacting with industry professionals and observing modern machinery and production systems, students gain practical insights that complement their classroom learning and enhance their industry readiness.

Internship Training

The students are encouraged to take internship program during their semester break. Faculty members give their guidelines, suggestions and scope and contact details of an internship. They also help the students by interacting with the industrial experts, provide the students recommendation letters and other necessary supports. The alumni coordinator constantly interacts with alumni those who are working in the industries and request them to provide necessary guidelines and supports for their junior's internship.
